

For Immediate Release: November 18, 2008

Toronto, Ontario - Your Solar Home Inc. www.yoursolarhome.com introduces SolarSheat[®] Hot Water a dual mode space heating and domestic solar hot water system without glycol for residential use.

Your Solar Home a leading provider of solutions for solar space heating announced today that it will be selling a new product called SolarSheat[®] Hot Water. The SolarSheat[®] Hot Water product provides a dual mode heating capability for supplemental residential solar domestic hot water or solar space heating.

The SolarSheat[®] Hot Water system will provide the same great functionality for space heating but will also give the homeowner the ability to switch between producing hot water or space heating. During the summer months the SolarSheat[®] Hot Water system can produce supplemental hot water further reducing CO₂ emissions while saving the consumer money on hot water bills. 'This is a real milestone for homeowners who might have been on the fence about purchasing a solar thermal system for one application. Now, homeowners can have a dual mode system for space heating or producing solar hot water. The combined SolarSheat[®] Hot Water system can save a homeowner between 25%-50% of their annual space heating/hot water requirements' says 'Todd Kirkpatrick' company founder and President.

The SolarSheat[®] Hot Water system is a self contained non glycol based solution that is unique for producing solar hot water. The system eliminates the need for glycol. This simplifies installation and maintenance traditionally associated with these glycol based systems.

Your Solar Home intends to have the SolarSheat[®] Hot Water system SRCC Certified under the OG-300 certification program. The current family of SolarSheat[®] products already meets the OG-100 guidelines and this will complete our product for solar domestic hot water says 'Kirkpatrick'.

Your Solar Home will begin taking pre orders for its SolarSheat[®] Hot Water system. The system will ship sometime in the early part of 2009 and be available through qualified SolarSheat[®] Hot Water partners. Your Solar Home will be providing training for its authorized dealer base for this product category.

About Your Solar Home

Your Solar Home Inc. is a Toronto based company that manufactures solar air, solar hot water, ventilation and furnace heating systems for residential and industrial use. The SolarSheat product line is available from Your Solar Home's authorized partners in the U.S. and Canada. For more information, call (905) 669-2212, email info@yoursolarhome.com or go to www.yoursolarhome.com.